

SCOPE AND APPLICABILITY:

This policy applies to all persons physically or virtually present at the Conference venue or engaged in activities related to the conference, including but not limited to committee sessions, training workshops, socials, opening and closing ceremonies, lobbying, backroom negotiations, and social media platforms.

Compliance with this policy is a condition precedent to participation, and it applies to all participants. It governs all conduct occurring within venues controlled by the Sanskriti Model United Nations, along with messaging groups and online committee platforms.

Jurisdiction extends to preparatory conduct that bears a material relationship to conference integrity, including plagiarism, falsification of documentation, or misrepresentation.

AUTHORITY:

Ultimate authority of the Conference is vested in the Faculty Advisors and the Secretariat. This authority is plenary, residual, and non-derogable except where expressly limited by this Policy.

Chairs and Executive Board members exercise procedural authority within their respective committees and disciplinary authority over conduct occurring within committee rooms. Faculty Advisors retain supervisory authority over all Conference operations and may intervene as well. No participant may challenge or disregard an instruction issued by a superior authority within this hierarchy.

CORE STANDARDS AND DUTIES ON PART OF THE DELEGATES:

All participants shall conduct themselves with restraint, seriousness, and respect for the institutional order.

Prohibited conduct includes, but is not limited to:

1. Disrupting committee proceedings

2. Harassment, intimidation, or humiliation of any participant, including discriminatory or derogatory speech
3. Cheating, plagiarism (involving the use of prohibited AI tools as well), or falsification of research
4. Impersonation or misrepresentation
5. Tampering with Conference materials or equipment
6. Unauthorised access to restricted areas

Standards apply equally to in-session and out-of-session behaviour that affects Conference integrity. Violation of these may result in being barred from committee sessions and/or awards.

Delegates are required to conduct themselves in a manner consistent with the academic and institutional nature of the conference, especially the fact that participation in debate does not excuse indiscipline, informality, or disregard for procedure.

Delegates shall comply promptly with instructions issued by the Executive Board or Secretariat members. Disagreement with rulings must be expressed through recognised procedural points and not through tone, gesture, interruption, or refusal to yield the floor.

Speech must remain directed to the committee and framed within the agenda's mandate. Delegates are responsible for the cumulative effect of their conduct. Failure to maintain discipline, repeated obstruction of committee flow, or sustained disregard for the Chair's authority will be treated as misconduct, irrespective of the delegate's intent.

All participants are expected to uphold standards of impartiality and fairness to preserve the credibility of SMUN. Members of the Executive Board and Secretariat must not engage in conduct that creates actual or perceived bias, including preferential treatment toward specific delegates, institutions, or delegations. Delegates are likewise expected to compete in good faith and must not attempt to influence evaluation through means unrelated to committee performance.

Where a potential conflict of interest arises, it must be disclosed to the Secretariat, which will take appropriate steps to ensure neutrality in evaluation and decision-making.

DRESS CODE:

All delegates are required to adhere to a formal dress code throughout the duration of the conference. Appropriate attire includes Western formal wear as well as Indian formal or traditional attire. Delegates are expected to dress in a manner that reflects the decorum and professionalism of the conference. Clothing that is excessively casual, inappropriate, or in violation of the dress code may be flagged by the Secretariat, and delegates will be requested to make suitable adjustments before entering committee sessions.

ELIGIBILITY, REGISTRATION AND PARTICIPATION:

Registration for SMUN constitutes a declaration that the registrant has read and accepted this Policy, agrees to be bound by Secretariat authority, and accepts the disciplinary jurisdiction of SMUN.

Delegates must register using accurate personal and institutional information. Any falsification, omission, or misrepresentation is grounds for disqualification. The Secretariat reserves the right to refuse or revoke registration at any time where continued participation is judged inconsistent with conference integrity or safety.

Delegates are required to attend all scheduled committee sessions and mandatory conference events. Repeated absence, late arrival, or early departure without prior approval may result in restrictions on participation or ineligibility for awards.

PLAGIARISM AND ARTIFICIAL INTELLIGENCE POLICY:

SMUN treats academic integrity as foundational, and therefore, all submissions must reflect the delegate's independent intellectual effort. The conference does not recognise collaborative authorship beyond what is procedurally authorised in the procedural guidelines of the concerned committee. Plagiarism includes verbatim copying, close paraphrasing without attribution, submission of material authored by third parties, or incorporation of content generated by automated systems.

Detection of plagiarism may occur through manual review, comparative analysis, or questioning of authorship. Delegates may be required to explain research sources and/or development timelines. Confirmed violations result in disciplinary actions by the Secretariat, including academic sanctions, exclusion from awards, or invalidation of submissions.

Delegates must not use generative artificial intelligence tools to generate, structure, or draft speeches or written submissions. This prohibition extends to paraphrasing, stylistic rewriting, and automated summarisation, where such use substitutes independent intellectual work. Permitted use is limited to factual research assistance analogous to a search engine, and compliance must be demonstrated if questioned.

RULES OF PROCEDURE:

SMUN operates under a modified parliamentary procedure derived from United Nations practice. Recognition of speakers rests solely with the Chair. No delegate may speak without recognition. The Chair may curtail speeches that violate decorum, exceed allotted time, or diverge materially from the agenda. The exact Rules of Procedure to be followed during the conference shall be specified within each committee's Procedural Guides.

Device and Internet Policy

Use of electronic devices within the committee is permitted; however, access to the internet is strictly prohibited during sessions unless explicitly authorized by the Executive Board. While delegates may bring and use devices for note-taking and research from pre-downloaded materials, the Directors reserve the discretion to restrict or prohibit the use of devices entirely for the duration of a session or specific segments of debate. Delegates are expected to comply promptly with all such directives.

Working Language

All forms of communication must remain appropriate, respectful, and in alignment with established standards of parliamentary conduct. The working language of the Conference shall be English, and all formal and informal communications across committees are expected to be conducted in English to ensure clarity, consistency, and accessibility for all participants. However, the Lok Sabha committee may function as a bilingual body.

DISCIPLINARY PROCEDURE:

Disciplinary authority at SMUN exists to preserve the integrity of proceedings rather than to punish as an end in itself. Enforcement is structured, reasoned, and documented. No action shall be arbitrary or impulsive.

The Secretariat may impose interim restrictions, including limitation of speaking rights or temporary exclusion from specific sessions, where continued unrestricted participation risks further disruption. Such measures are administrative and do not constitute a finding of guilt.

Sanctions are determined with reference to severity, recurrence, and impact on conference order. Prior warnings are relevant but not determinative. Even in the absence of precedent, firm action may be taken if the conduct threatens the authority or academic credibility of the conference. All disciplinary determinations are recorded internally. Delegates are not entitled to demand disclosure of internal reasoning.

CEREMONIAL AND FORMAL PROCEEDINGS:

Opening ceremonies, closing ceremonies, keynote addresses, and award distributions are formal proceedings governed by the same standards of discipline as committee sessions.

Participants are required to remain seated, attentive, and silent unless otherwise directed. Entry, exit, movement, and use of electronic devices will be restricted.

Any conduct detracting from the seriousness of proceedings may be addressed immediately by the Secretariat. Misconduct during ceremonial sessions is treated with particular seriousness, as such sessions represent the institutional face of the conference.

Delegates are required to attend every event prescribed in the itinerary.

AWARD POLICY:

The number of awards given out in a committee and their classification is at the discretion of the directors of the committee. Delegation awards (for small and large delegations) will be determined based on delegation performance and based on points accumulated by the delegation based on the awards won divided by number of delegates. Marksheets are confidential and will not be shared with a delegate.

All individual and school awards at SMUN are conditional recognitions and may be revoked at the discretion of Sanskriti Model United Nations. Grounds for revocation include, but are not limited to:

1. Procedural misrepresentation and interference with official documentation or adjudication processes, whether intentional or unintentional;
2. Breach of academic or competitive integrity;
3. Obscene, indecorous, or inappropriate behaviour inconsistent with institutional decorum;
4. Any conduct bringing or likely to bring disrepute to the conference or host institution;
5. Violation of the SMUN Code of Conduct or conference policy;
6. Any other conduct deemed inconsistent with the objectives or orderly functioning of the conference.

RESIDUAL AUTHORITY:

The Secretariat and Sanskriti School retains residual authority over all matters not expressly provided for in this Policy. This includes unforeseen procedural questions, jurisdictional disputes, emergencies, and conduct not anticipated at the time of drafting. In the event of ambiguity or dispute regarding the interpretation of this Policy, the Secretariat's interpretation shall be considered final.

CONCLUSION:

This Policy governs participation, conduct, and procedure at SMUN. It establishes authority, defines obligations, and provides for enforcement where required. Compliance is a condition of participation.

Attendance at SMUN constitutes acceptance of these terms. Violation of rules may result in disqualification from the awards process for a delegate/delegation.
